

from Hamlet

To thine own self be true. To thine own self be kind,
And you will find
There is no love to give that's pure
Until you're sure.

To thine own self be true. To thine own self be real
And you will feel
There is no need to fear the nearness of another.
To thine own self be true.

For, when you live and give to please another man
You stand to wound your soul;
And the lies give the cries to the injustice of it all,
But you are the only one who's sure to fall.

To thine own self be true. To thine own self be free
And you will see
There's no need to name and blame another, no.
To thine own self be true.